A message of Wisdom

To increase your knowledge...

"You are what you think..." This relates to success and self esteem. Always see yourself in a positive prospective; therefore you can always end with a positive outcome. There are many things in life that we are powerless over—and powerful to avoid or overcome. With this principle standing, thinking positive is the best outcome.

Looking at health and welfare as an expansion of services...

THTWB, has always been involved in health initiatives. For the last past 2 years, THTWB hasn't provided the "walk a mile to prevent Diabetes" parade. Via this activity, THTWB was able to focus on disparities that affect minorities, elderly and youth's disproportionately. Through internal and external contacts, THTWB has been asked to reconsider re-activating our health programs. We know that these programs will have a cost component, therefore grants and staff will need to be obtained. Through our strategic planning process, we have connected with B 4 Business consulting to provide a needs assessment and pathway on the efficacy of this delivery. We are also seeking funders to fund these initiatives once the direction has been established. These programs if actualized are projected in our 2012-2015 budget. Stay tuned.

THTWB Executive Director's snapshot:

The following question has been posed to the Executive Director in regards to "Self-efficiency": "How can one truly work towards self-efficiency in this economy?" The Executive Director's answer is:

On the Web!
thtwbuilt.com

“Self-efficiency’ in this director’s opinion as it relates to this economy is a “tool” that should be developed as a child maturing to an adult. Certain skills are obtained through life and nurturing and that connects us with our environment and social needs. This economy is challenging those areas.

There are 4 survival tactics that I would suggest: 1) “Know your strength” - your strength provides you with the ability to prevail. 2) “Determine whether this strength provides you with opportunities” - this will provide you with the knowledge to move forward and succeed. 3) “Develop a relationship”- who are your players, where are your resources and decide whether they are effective contacts. 4) “Cultivate” the concept that I promote which is, - “Love who you are, treat everyone fair, and believe in giving and winning.” When you have incorporated this act into your daily routine and use it as your statement of purpose and fulfillment you’ve strengthened your inner being...

Special message from the CEO...

Social services help society with maintaining balance and a sense of knowing that someone cares and believes in you and your purpose in life. Social service should not be perceived as a handout but as a means of Godly delivery that you need to do your part and let God do his.

Simply put, it is man’s responsibility to care for man... we are the most intelligent form of creation and it is our responsibility to help those in need when we are blessed and can help. One should always remember that you can be on the other side of the receivership... keep this in mind when you are aware of social services that are doing this type of work. Your support will always be welcomed.
